FRIDAY, AUGUST 31, 1866.

THE question is frequently asked by correspondents, what effect Johnsonism will have upon the vote cast at the forthcoming election in Allegheny county. From actual calculation, in which a liberal allowance is made for all defection in the Republican ranks, we can safely predict a majority for the Union nominees of between seven and ten thousand. Never since 1860, when the loyal masses turned out in their greatest might for ABRAHAM LINCOLN, have the people of this county been more thoroughly aroused to the interests at stake. The trifling number who have left the fold of the Union Republicans will not decrease the majority, as we know of fully as many Democrats who will either vote the loyal ticket or stay away from the polls, rather than sink their manhood by clubbing with the Mongrelites. Indeed, such strength has the feeling of dissatisfaction obtained that a straight out Democratic ticket may be placed in nomination, in which event the combination party will be sadly defeated. At all events, the Union Republicans have nothing to fear. They should, however, work strenuously to roll up an extraordinary majority—one which would carry with it emphatic evidence that we have not degenerated from the proud position of loyalty occupied by old Allegheny from the moment the first gun was fired upon Sumpter, till the hour of final victory over rebellion.

SPECIE, in material quantities, has commenced flowing back to this country from Europe. This is not because the commercial balance has actually set in our favor; but because of increased demand abroad for our national securities. The cash that comes is not money earned, but money borrowed. The influx of it, under such circumstances, is not a sign of monetary health, but evidence of unsoundness. A nation cannot borrow itself out of debt, any more than an individual. Europeans are buying federal bonds at a large depreciation, computing on a gold basis; and the bonds they purchase will ultimately have to be redeemed at par in coin. Only when the tide of gold shall flow back because we are producing more food, clothing, and other merchantable articles than we need for our own consumption, and selling them abroad, will our commercial and financial system rest on a sure foundation.

IN the days of Republican simplicity, [illegible] Q. ADAMS occupied the Executive [illegible], Presidential Progresses were [illegible] ostentation. No heralds ran before, bidding gaping multitudes assemble. No cannon thundered deafening welcomes. No brimming beakers sparkled hospitality. Solitary and alone, he mounted his horse, after the old fashion, and went on his way. This avoidance of display, this puritanic austerity, has given place to monarchical dignity and luxuriousness. Is this change of manner for the better?

JUST NOW it is the fashion for certain organs of democratic opinion to

"Swell themselves
To bursting nigh, to utter bulky words
Of administration vast,"

of President JOHNSON. By way of contrast, it is refreshing to note, in private conversation, with what contempt candid democrats speak of him and the Republicans who are following him in the great betrayal. While not averse to reaping any advantages the treachery may throw in their way, they express the deepest loathing for all who are concerned in it.

IN the Luzerne and Susquehanna Congressional district the Republicans have not yet settled on a candidate. In Luzerne several gentlemen have been named, among them Mr. W. W. KETCHUM, who seems to have the lead. In Susquehanna it is probable a candidate will be brought forward; but the preference is given to Mr. KETCHUM, if a Luzerne man is to be taken. These two counties were carried last year for Gen. HARTRANFT, and strong hopes are felt that a republican Congressman can be elected this year.

GEN. FORREST, the author of the massacre at Fort Pillow, properly presided over the meeting held at Memphis, to ratify the Philadelphia Convention. Fort Pillow, Memphis, New Orleans—all manifestations of the same ferocity in furtherance of the same cause. It is not wonderful the perpetrators of these horrible barbarities are delighted with the President's Policy; for it accords them the immunity for their crimes which will lead them on to fresh exploits of the same infamous character.

GEN. SHERIDAN reports that the speech Dr. DOSTIE made the day before the massacre in New Orleans was "intemperate in language and sentiment." We can readily credit that assertion. But was that a reasonable excuse for butchering him? If all the men who make intemperate speeches should be killed, there would be a woeful falling off in the number of male inhabitants. The President would certainly not survive, for he never made a speech that was moderate in tone or words.

THE Rev. Henry Ward Beecher has been appointed Chaplain to the Cleveland Johnson Convention. The Copperheads and rebels are taking him into high favor. We shall hear no more fierce diatribes from them against the occupant of the Plymouth Church pulpit. When listening to their new-born praises if the question does not beset him, "What evil have I done that these men speak well of me?" then his instincts are more battered than we believe.

THE PRESIDENT is reported to be indignant because the Mayor and Councils of Philadelphia made no arrangements for his reception there. The President will doubtless find before his return to Washington that genuine Republicans have no enthusiasm or parade to expend on their betrayer. They are ready to honor the Presidency, but not in the person of such a man.

PETROLEUM seems to be attended, of late, with marvellous fatalities. The appalling conflagration at Hoboken, Narrowsburg, and Antwerp, speak with the utmost emphasis in behalf of additional securities in the traffic in this commodity.

GENERAL SHERIDAN pronounces the Mayor of New Orleans guilty of murder. The President stands by the Mayor, and appoints a successor to the General. And such a successor! One who sold his honest convictions for promotion.

THE Little Rebel yesterday hoists the name of J. Y. M'Laughlin, Esq., of the Sixth ward, as a candidate for Sheriff on the "National Union" party ticket in place of Joseph Ross, Esq., resigned.

THE Government supplies the Fusionists with bread and butter, while the New York Times deals out the weak tea—in argument.

Because they combine the three properties of a tonic, an alterative and a nervine in their utmost purity and perfection.

Because they are a specific against Ague and Fever and all intermittents, and with all their potency as a preservative and a remedy, are as harmless as water from the mountain spring.

Republican State Convention—Nominations for State and County Officers—Resolutions.

DETROIT, August 30.—The Republican State Convention met in this city to-day. Every organized county of the State was represented. The following were the nominations: Governor Crapo was re-nominated, the names of the Hon. H. P. Baldwin and General Stoughton being withdrawn, after the first ballot: Lieutenant Governor Colliwight; Secretary of State, General Spaulding; Treasurer, E. O. Grossvenor; Land Commissioner, General Pritchard; Attorney General Stoughton; Superintendent of Schools, O. Hosford; Member of Board of Education, Edwin Williams; Auditor General, General Humphrey.

Among the resolutions adopted was the following: "Defeated in the field the enemy has renewed the struggle through the ballot-box, and by political machinations aims at that which it failed to destroy. In this crisis it behooves us to stand as firmly as we did in the suppressing of the rebellion. To Congress alone belongs the duty of deciding when Senators and Representatives of the late rebellious States are entitled to admission. Said States ought to be recognized as fit to enjoy privileges belonging to any State in this Union only when the people thereof by their conduct give satisfactory proof of their loyalty, accept the situation and evidence of honest disposition, and abide by the results of the conflict."

Resolved, That in the rehabilitation of rebel communities it is first the highest duty of the Government to look and provide for the protection of those who, under persecution and oppression, remained loyal to the United States, and that as one result of the struggle has been the emancipation of millions of human beings, who are in a great degree incapable of self protection in the midst of a hostile element, and no scheme of restoration ought to be approved which leaves them naked to their rebel enemies. Since, as citizens of the United States, they are entitled to the protection in securing equality before the law in maintainance of life, liberty and property, common and invincible rights of mankind.

Resolved, That we approve the Constitutional Amendment, lately proposed by Congress for the acceptance of the States; the change in the basis of representation imperatively demanded by the altered condition of the people of the nation, and the exclusion from office of the leading rebels and actually perjured traitors not only a measure of justice and security eminently proper, but of unexampled mercy and the mildest and most generous terms of amnesty ever offered to a rebellious enemy. They recommend the amendment of the neutrality laws, so as not to render any special benefits to nations not accorded to the United States by them; sympathize with the movement of laboring men to shorten the hours of toil; regard the Congressional plan of reconstruction indispensable to the future peace of the country.

Resolved, That we scout and scorn as unworthy of freemen that political blasphemy which says this is the white man's Government. It is not the white man's Government nor the black man's Government. It is God's Government, made for man and all men who are true and loyal to it, of whatever race, color or condition, shall have under its triumphant and glorious flag all those inalienable rights to man as man.

Resolutions were adopted instructing the Michigan member of the National Union Convention to use his influence to exclude Henry Raymond from that committee.

A delegation of one hundred was appointed to attend the Philadelphia Convention. The list comprises the Governor, both Senators, all the Congressmen, and Ex-Governor Blair. The proceedings throughout were harmonious and enthusiastic. A large meeting of officers and soldiers was held to-night to organize the society of the Boys in Blue.

New York Cholera Report for the Week—Freedmen's Bureau Commissioner—Presidential Dinner at Delmonico's.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Dr. Dalton, Sanitary Superintendent of the Board of Health, reports that during the week ending yesterday—August 29th—there were twenty-nine cases of genuine cases of cholera in this city, of which twenty proved fatal.

A Washington special says: General Tillson has been ordered to resume his position as Freedmen's Bureau Commissioner at Augusta, which seems to indicate there is no foundation in the report that he was to succeed General Howard in charge of the Bureau at Washington.

The Post says: The dinner to the President's party at Delmonico's last night, was one of the most elegant and expensive affairs of the kind ever enjoyed by so large a party in this country. A dinner for two hundred and fifty persons was ordered, and the cost was twenty-five thousand dollars, or one hundred dollars for each plate. There were eight different varieties of wine, costing from fifteen to twenty dollars per bottle.

Invitation for the President to Visit St. Louis.

WEST POINT, August 30.—Just before the President left New York, Napoleon Mulleken and other citizens of St. Louis, extended to him a formal invitation to visit their city, but he replied that it was impossible at the present to give a favorable response. The proprietor of the St. Louis Lindell House also extended an invitation to the President and suite to make that House their home, should their visit extend thither.

Mr. Raymond's Reply to Gov. Ward.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mr. Raymond has addressed the following reply to Governor Ward denying the right of the National Executive Committee to meet except under the call of its officers.

NEW YORK, August 29.—To Hon. Marcus L. Ward:—I have just received your favor of the 28th. It is a matter wholly within your own discretion whether you attend the meeting of the National Union Executive Committee called in this city for the 3d of September or not, but I am not aware that you have the right to overrule the action of the National Union Convention by which, in common with yourself, I was made a member of that Committee, or that of the Committee itself, by which I was made its Chairmann, and I trust I need not inform you that meetings of the Committee can only be held under a call of its proper officers, and that action taken at meetings not so-called, can have no binding authority. My object in calling this meeting was to afford the Committee an opportunity to take such action in regular form as in its judgement the condition and interests of the Union party may require. If its members do not choose to attend it, my duty will have been performed. I am obliged to you for the opinions as to my political course with which you favor me. I trust I do not underrate their importance or that of which the distinguished source from they come. I have no desire to controvert or comment upon them, though, as at present advised, I certainly prefer my own. I hope I need not add that I have no desire to hold any official position in the National Committee of the Union party, or of any other, against the wish of its members, but I deem it my duty especially, as this is not merely a matter of personal feeling to insist upon the regularity of action as the only mode by which that wish can be ascertained.

Yours, very respectfully,
HENRY J. RAYMOND.

THE PRESIDENTIAL TOUR.

President Johnson's Speech at the Banquet at Delmonico's, New York—The Reception at Albany—Address of the Mayor—Gov. Fenton's Speech—The Party at West Point, etc., etc.

NEW YORK, August 30.—The following are the principal passages of the speech of President Johnson, in response to a toast at the grand banquet at Delmonico's last night. After returning thanks for the compliment, he proceeded:

"We have, gentlemen, here assembled with us on this occasion those who took an active part in that struggle for the preservation of our country—the army on the one hand (pointing to General Grant), and the navy on the other (pointing to Farragut). These gentlemen have all performed their part in restoring this country to its present condition, and it would be very derelict in me if I should omit to say that the Secretary of State has fully performed his part. As to what part the humble individual who now addresses you took in that struggle for the suppression of the rebellion and restoration of the government, I will say nothing now, but I will say, in summing up, though I may perhaps be included in that summing up. I will say that I feel that the Government has discharged its duty, but there is something else to be performed—the work is not yet done—though we have passed through fields of blood, and at times almost forced to the conclusion that we would be compelled to see the Godess of Liberty go staggering through carnage and blood, and our Government a failure, yet by the blessing of Providence matters have been brought to a different termination, so far we have been saved, but while the enemy has been put down in the field, there still remains a greater and more important work for you to do, I must be permitted to say, and I wish not to tresspass upon your time. I must be permitted to remark in this connection that the Government undertook the suppression of this rebellion, for the express purpose of preserving the union of these States. That was the declaration that it made at the beginning, and under that declaration it went into the war, and continued it until the rebellion was suppressed. By the suppression of this rebellion the Government established and announced the great fact that these States have not the power nor the right, either by forcible or peaceable means, to separate from each other That was determined and settled by the Government of the United States, the Executive Department of it, but there is another Department, of your government, which has declared by its official action, that notwithstanding the rebellion was suppressed for the purpose of preserving the union of the States, and to establish definitely the doctrine that no State has a right to secede, I say there is a department of your government which has practically assumed and declared, and up to the present time, carried out that the Government was dissolved, and the States were out of the Union. We, who contend for the opposite doctrine, years ago contended that the States had not the right, even peaceably, to secede, and one means of peaceable secession was by a state withdrawing its representatives from the Congress of the United States, and that would be practical dissolution of the Union. We denied that a State had any such right, and when, subsequently, they attempted to withdraw we again asserted that they had no such right, and now when the doctrine has been forcibly established, that a State has no right to leave the Union, and when the States are again resuming their relations with the Federal Government as far as in them lies, we find that when they seek to have their Representatives admitted to Congress, there are men in that body who, in violation of our great charter of Liberty deny their right to be represented, and refuse to admit their Representatives into the Congress of the United States. The query then comes up in the struggle that is now before us, will we submit—will the American people submit to this practical assertion of the doctrine that they have already repudiated and overthrown? The issue is before you. Will these States be permitted to remain as they are, so far as representation is concerned, in a state of practical secession and disruption. It is giving the lie direct to every position. It is subverting every position taken up since the rebellion commenced. Are we prepared now, after having passed through our terrible war, after the immense amount of blood that has been shed, after having accumulated a debt of over four thousand million dollars, and after the injury that has been inflicted on the country, North and South, are we prepared to permit this disrupted and disrupting condition of affairs to continue?

Let me ask this intelligent audience, not in the language of declamation, but in the spirit of christianity and sound philosophy, are we prepared to review those scenes through which we have just passed? Are we prepared again to see one portion of this country arrayed in deadly conflict against another portion, as we have just seen them arrayed, or shall we not make every effort to have all the parts and all the people of the country again united in harmony and brotherly love?

Well, gentlemen, what is said now, after the Philadelphia Convention has met and pronounced on the conditions of the country? What is now said? Why; that those men who met in that Convention were insincere; that their professions were worth nothing, and were not to be believed.

Gentlemen, what better evidence can you have of loyalty than these men give? Who has fought this rebellion with more consistency and determination than I have? Who has sacrificed or suffered more for the country? But, because my sacrifices and sufferings have been great, as an incident growing out of a great civil war, should I therefore become insensible to truth and principles? We are told that those men, notwithstanding their profession of loyalty and devotion to the Union, are not to be believed. But, I ask you, what better evidence you can have of loyalty and devotion than profession and action? Who dares in this day of political and religious freedom to get up an inquisition and go into the human bosom to search for motives and sentiments? How many men have lived under this Government all along, from its origin up to the present time, who have loyally obeyed the laws and paid their taxes, and aided the Government in every way required of them, yet who, perhaps, would much have preferred to have had it greatly modified in form, or even to live under a monarchy? The best evidences that can be shown of loyalty are loyal professions and loyal actions, and when those gentlemen who met in Convention, from the North and South, come forward and profess devotion to the Union and Constitution, and when their actions and professions correspond, who shall dare to doubt them? Have we reached that point that all confidence is lost in men? If we have, I tell you that your Government is not as strong as a rope of sand. It has no weight, and will tumble to pieces. The adhesive power of this Government is in the confidence which the people put in each other. These men who sat in convention sat in a city the professions of whose people, in times gone by, were that they were a peace-loving and a war-hating people. These men sat there in convention in the interests of peace, and their professions are doubted. These people say to them, "We won't believe you," and therefore the present state of practical dissolution of the Union must continue to exist. I am a Southern man, though I do not speak here to-night as a Southern man, because I first saw the light of Heaven in a Southern State. Thank God, I feel that I entertain opinions and ideas that are co-extensive with all the States, and with the people of them all. While I am a Southern man, I am a Northern man also, that is to say, I am a citizen of the United States, and am willing to concede to other citizens what I claim for myself. But I was going to call your attention to a point. The Southern States or their leaders proposed separation. Now what was the reason that they did so? The time has come to consult our reason, and not mere impulse. What was the reason or one of the reasons that the South gave for desiring separation? They said they feared that the Constitution of the United States could not be enforced, and that their rights could not be secured in the Union. That was the reason they gave. They said that the Constitution cannot be enforced in the Union, and therefore we will separate from the Union, and we will form a new Government for ourselves, and we will take the Constitution of our country and enforce it there. That was separation. It was against the Union, and I was always opposed to anything that was opposed to the Union. I took my position in the Senate of the United States and assured them as I have since that this Union was perpetual; that it was a great magic circle that could never be broken, but the reason the South gave was that the Constitution could not be enforced under the then existing combination of States, and therefore that it might be enforced, they wanted separation. They attempted to separate, but they failed. But while the question was pending, they established for themselves a form of Government, and what kind of a Government was it? What kind of a Constitution did they adopt? Was it not the same old Constitution with some few variations—the Constitution of the United States? You know that it was, and that they desired to live under that Constitution and enforce its provisions under a separate Government of their own. We said: No, you shall remain with us and the Constitution shall be preserved and enforced. We fought on until the rebellion was suppressed, and when the armies of the rebellion were overcome they accepted the terms that the Government gave them. The Government said to them: Disband your armies and return to your original positions in the Union, and we will receive you with open arms. The time came at which their armies were overcome and disbanded. That was done under the lead of my distinguished friend on my right. Well, they accepted the terms of the Government, and what did they say? They said we want to return. Some of them said we have been mistaken; others said, we selected the arbiter, and the arbiter of our selection has decided against us, and therefore as honorable men we accept the decision. But they all say we want to return. Now, will their offer be accepted? Do we want a Union again? I have said before, and I now repeat it, I do not want to let them come back into the Union degraded and debased. They would not be fit to form a part of this great American family. I want them to come back with all their manhood. I have not approached the point that I intended to, and I know that I am talking too long. I have just called attention to the Constitution, under which they were desirous of living—the Constitution of their fathers—but they wanted it separately. Now, however, in returning, having lost the institution of slavery, which was the apple of discord, they take up the Constitution under which they lived before, and ask that it shall be the law, and shall be enforced. Where, then, is the cause for distrust or want of confidence? There is none. I do not come here to apologize for those who have tried to destroy the Government, and if my public speeches and acts do not disprove the charge that I want to apologize for them, there is no use in a man's having a public record. But I know the southern people, and, admitting their errors to the fullest extent, I know that there are large numbers of them who were misled and coerced by public opinion. Men, who, when they saw the flag of their country receding as rebellion advanced, grew pale with fear and sorrow, and whose faces when they saw that flag returning in triumph, glowed again with joy. But their leaders betrayed them. But in the West they have a way of playing hammer and anvil. While Davis and others of that class were talking of separation in the South, there was another class at the North, made up of Phillips, Garrison and such men, who were talking dissolution at the North. These were the two extremes, the one the anvil, the other the hammer, and when the rebellion broke out at one end of the line they joined in with those who were trying to suppress it. The rebellion has been suppressed, but we have not yet ceased to play the game of hammer and anvil. I am for the Union, and I am against all those who are opposed to the Union. I am for the Union, the whole Union, and nothing but the Union. I helped my distinguished friend on my right (Gen. Grant,) to fight the rebellion at the South. You all remember his peculiar phrase, "That he was going to fight it out on that line." I was with him, and I did all that I could. We whipped them at that end of the line, and I want to say to you here, that I am now fighting at the other end, and if he is not in the field now in the military sense, he is where he does good service. It is a struggle for the union in which we are engaged. The union is essential to us. The North cannot get along without the South, nor the South without the North. But men say, do you want to be governed and controlled by rebels? I answer no, we want to let loyal men in, and none but loyal men and I ask here to-night upon what reasonable ground rests the fear that men coming into Congress from the South, would control the country to its destruction? Take the entire delegation, fifty-eight representatives, compared with two hundred and eighty-two. Do you fear that fifty-eight men will control all the rest? Oh! men say, they will repudiate our public debt. Now place these fifty-eight men in the most powerful position that you possibly can, and you have one hundred and fifty or one hundred and eighty, an overwhelming majority against them, surely enough to keep them from doing serious harm. Are we a great people? Are we all cowards? Did they control you before the rebellion commenced, and will they have any more power now than they had before?

I am no prophet, but I predicted some things at the beginning of this rebellion that have literally come to pass. I told the Southern people years agoe, that whenever they would attempt to dissolve the Union, the institution of slavery was gone. You, sir, (turning to Mr. Seward) know that I made that argument to Jeff. Davis. You were in the Senate, and you will bear witness to the position I then occupied. I told them then that the institution of slavery had little or no protection outside of the Union. They thought differently. They put up the stakes. You all know how great that stake was. They lost it completely. The Constitution still exists; the Union is still preserved. They did not succeed in escaping from it, and the institution of slavery is destroyed. Since its destruction the Southern States have come up magnanimously and acknowledged the fact, and have gone into these State Conventions and ratified its abolition. There is another thing. You have about three thousand millions of dollars in bonds. How are you going to preserve the credit of them? Will you tell me how the security, how the value, how the ultimate payment of the interest and principal of these bonds is to be secured? Is it by continuing this Government, disrupted as it is, by crippling our energies and dividing us up into half a dozen petty States?

Let me tell you, and mark what I tell you, that there is no way by which those bonds can be ultimately paid, interest and principal, than by the consolidation of our nationality, the perpetuity and completeness of the union of the States. Pardon me when I say I understand this question, and I tell you that you play a false part now, and play into the hands of your enemies and the enemies of your country, when you and those who would keep the Government disrupted. Let us unite all portions of the country firmly together, and you will have more capital than you need. You have evinced a good will. The billows begin to heave, and I tell those persons that are croaking and seeking individual aggrandizement, or the perpetuity of a party, that they had better stand out of the way. The country is coming together again, and they cannot prevent it. For myself I am content to be guided by the example of the Saviour of mankind. If I have pardoned many it has been because I thought it was for the best interests of the country, having found them repentant and anxious to be pardoned. Gentlemen, I have talked long enough. It has never been my habit to prepare speeches, but rather to take up a subject, having previously thought upon it of course, and talk about it. The very idea of making a formal preparation has always disqualified me. Gentlemen, your country is in your hands.

The issue is before you. I stand here to-night, not as the President of the United States, but rather as a citizen, advocating the restoration of the Union. Since I have been the Chief Executive of the nation I have tried to discharge my duties in the way that I believed would most surely tend to bring back harmony to all portions of the country. What have I to gain by any other course? I have filled every office under this Government. You may talk about me as you will. Men may traduce and vilify me. Mendacious and unprincipled writers may attack me as they will, but all of them cannot draw me from what I feel to be right. What have I to gain from the lowest office in your city to the Presidency of the United States? I have filled every office, who can do more? Ought not any reasonable ambition to be satisfied with that? I tell you, gentlemen, that the summit of my ambition has been reached with the exception of one thing. Will you hear what that is? It is that if at this particular crisis of our country's history, finding the Union of these States imperilled, I can be instrumental in the hands of the people, in restoring the Union and making it complete and perpetual; if I can do that, I will be willing to exclaim, as Simeon of old, when he saw the babe that had been born in the manger, "Now that I have seen the glory of thy salvation, let Thy servant depart in peace." I would rather live in history, and in the affections of my countrymen as the one who had consummated this great result, than be President of the United States forty times.

NEW YORK, Aug 30.—The President's party has been joined by Major Generals Custar, Rosseau, Fullerton and Steedman, regularly invited guests and by A. T. Stewart, Richard Schell, Henry Clews, Hall White and others. The New York press is largely represented at West Point. The party were received by an infantry and cavalry escort, who accompanied them to the grounds. Thousands of persons of both sexes from the surrounding country and the city of New York were present. The scene was brilliant and truly of an interesting character. The excursionists having been seated they were entertained by an exhibition of the Cadet's practice.

At quarter past one they resumed their journey towards Albany. While passing Newburg, the speed of the River Queen was slackened, salutes were fired on shore and cheers were given by the large concourse of people gathered on the wharf. The President standing on the upper deck, acknowledged the compliment by bowing and waving his hat. Dinner was served on the boat at Poughkeepsie; the people had gathered in large numbers and cheered the party as it passed, the President acknowledging the compliment; more than the usual number of steamers were passed, many of which were gaily trimmed, their passengers cheering and waiving their hats and handkerchiefs, the President acknowledging the compliment.

The company is in the best of spirits and delighted with all the incidents of the trip and the beautiful scenery of the Hudson. At Hudson four or five steamboats lying at the wharf were densely filled with men, women and children, and at other places near the river bank large crowds had assembled. The hill tops presented a long line of spectators, and many persons were scattered on the slope. The scene was not only interesting but pleasurably exciting. The President, Secretary Seward, Admiral Farragut, General Grant, Secretary Welles and Postmaster General Randall, and all others on board the River Queen, properly recognized the compliment bestowed. It was, perhaps, the most animated demonstration on the way from New York. At Stuyvesant a salute was fired, and the usual salutations were interchanged. At six o'clock, when twelve miles from Albany, the steamer Metamora approached the River Queen, with the Mayor of Albany and a committee of citizens and the City Councils. Secretary Seward introduced His Honor, the Mayor, to the President, Admiral Farragut, General Grant and other distinguished gentlemen of the excursion. The party were also introduced to the Albanians. The Mayor addressed the President as follows:

"Mr. President—In behalf of the Common Council and the citizens of Albany, I have the honor to tender to you, to the members of your Cabinet, to the distinguished officers of the army and navy, and the eminent gentlemen of the Diplomatic Corps, a cordial and most emphatic welcome to our city. With regard to yourself, sir, we beg you to accept this welcome, not simply as a mark of respect for the high position which you occupy as Chief Magistrate of the nation, but as a tribute to your personal worth and as a grateful acknowledgment of your services to the country. We cannot forget how earnestly you espoused the cause of the Union at the outset of the late unhappy war; how zealously you devoted your masterly abilities, your time and untiring energies to its preservation; how nobly you supported the administration of your lamented predecessor, and how, in the dark hours of disaster, you stayed his hands when they were heavy, and cheered his heart when it was sad. Since your elevation to the presidency, although responsibilities were thrown upon you far more momentous, if it were possible, than ever devolved upon any of your predecesors, you have exhibited the same fidelity to your official obligations; the same patriotism, and the same incorruptible integrity. In offering you, therefore, this warm and heartfelt greeting, we discharge a duty which we owe alike to you and to ourselves. Trusting that under the blessing of God, and with the aid of the able advisers who compose your Cabinet, your administration may result in the restoration of permanent harmony and good feeling, as between all the States, we will only add: Long live the President, and forever live the Union.

The President replied: Mr. Mayor—I thank you for what you have said, and I am in hopes that those thanks will not be attributed to personal vanity. The distinction which you have made in welcoming me is exceedingly gratifying. You welcome me, first, as the Chief Magistrate of the nation, a distinction and respect due to so exalted a station, and then, in a most acceptable manner, you give your gratulation to me as a private citizen. In this trying and perilous condition of our country, an encouragement of this kind strengthens and inspires me in my determination to pursue and carry out the policy that I believe will result in the restoration of peace and prosperity to the Government and country. I feel confident and hopeful. All I can say in return is, I know how to appreciate such a welcome, and again I thank you most sincerely for what you have said to me, both as a chief magistrate and as a private individual and citizen." (Applause.) The Mayor and Common Council of Troy, accompanied by a large delegation of citizens on board the steamer Emiline, met the River Queen at Corymans, and accompanied her to Albany, where the parties arrived at about 7 o'clock.

ALBANY, August 30.—The wharves were densely lined with spectators to such an extent that the excursion party could scarcely reach the carriages. The greatest possible excitement everywhere prevailed. There was continuous cheering and firing of salutes and music. Thousands of people lined the sidewalks of the streets through which the procession passed, and some in their anxiety crowded the carriage way to peep into the faces of the excursionists. The President's carriage was guarded by the Burgess' Corps. The procession, passed up Broadway, and returning, was received by the 10th and 25th Regiments and the Fire Department, the latter comprising six hundred members. Along the route a number of buildings were illuminated and flags and transparencies displayed. Rockets were fired and different colored pyrotechnics illuminated the streets.

At about 8 o'clock it halted at the Capitol the Park of which was densely crowded with persons of both sexes and all ages and conditions. Governor Fenton received the President on board the ship and having shaken hands with him, delivered the following address: Mr. President, with high consideration for the Chief Magistrate of the Republic, I address you in words of welcome, in behalf of our citizens, and the people of the State, whose Capitol you visit. We extend to you and to your suite hospitality and greeting, and desire your safe conduct as you go hence to pay honor to the memory of the lamented Douglas, to the state also distinguished as the home and final resting place of the patriot and martyr Lincoln. I have no power to give due expression to the feelings of this assemblage of citizens, nor to express in fitting terms the respect and magnanimity of the whole people upon an occasion so marked as the coming to our capital and to our homes of the President of the United States. In their names I give assurance to your Excellency of their fidelity, patriotism and zealous interest in all that relates to the good order, progress and freedom of all the States, and of their earnest hope that peace will soon open up to the people of the whole land new fields of greater liberty, prosperity and power.

The President made no lengthy reply, but merely returned his thanks and accepted as the chief magistrate of the country, the hospitalities of the State. The President and party were then escorted to the Executive Chamber where the Governor introduced the President to the Senators of the State and to the Lieut. Governor; Gen. Grant, Admiral Farragut and Secretary Welles and others, were subsequently introduced.

After remaining a few minutes at the Executive Chamber, the President and party withdrew, and the procession re-formed and was joined by the firemen, and the line of march was resumed, down State street and up Broadway to the Delevan House, where a dinner given by the city, awaited the party. Over this route, the scene was singularly brilliant, the firemen bearing torches and firing rockets, and citizens joining with them in the display of many colored fire-works from their stores and dwellings. The excitement on the streets in this city was greater in proportion to the population, than in any city through which we have passed since we left Washington.

Cholera in New York and Brooklyn—Suicide of Lucius Starr—Movements of the Presidential Party—Race Between Gen. Grant and the President—Gen. Grant Beats.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Four new cases but no deaths from cholera in this city was reported this morning; five cases but no deaths are reported in Brooklyn to-day. Mr. Lucius Starr, Superintendent of Roger's Locomotive Works, New York, committed suicide at his residence in Brooklyn to-day, by shooting himself. The President and party visited Central Park this morning and then took a steamer at Manhattanville, and left for West Point. On entering the Park, Gen. Grant asked permission of the driver of his carriage to take the reins, he then drove out of the line, and came up along side of the President's carriage and challenged a race. The driver accepted the challenge, and they started off at a rapid pace. They kept side by side for a mile, when Grant's team commenced to gain on the President's, and soon after passed, the President rising and lifting his hat in acknowledgment.

Monthly Statement of the Public Debt.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—It is highly probable that the usual monthly statement of the public debt will be in readiness before the second or third of next month. It is thought that a very considerable reduction will be shown in the Department, although owing to the fact that about sixty-three millions of the temporary loan have been called in, a much less amount of currency and cash will be found in the treasury. The coin balances are shown to have largely increased.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

(ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS ON THIRD PAGE.)

Death from an Accident.

On Sunday evening last, Miss Etta H. Crall, died at the residence of her parents, in Monongahela City. The deceased was a young lady of more than ordinary beauty, amiability and intelligence, and her sudden death at the early age of twenty is a fact so mournfully sad as to be almost beyond realization. Miss Etta received an injury during a visit to the Opera in Pittsburgh, last winter, by falling from the steps, which were covered with ice. From this she never fully recovered, and the injury to her head resulting in an abcess affecting her brain, she died on Sunday as stated. Under the nom de plume of Ida Morris, she contributed to the columns of the Monongahela Republican several sketches in prose and poetry, which attracted considerable attention at the time of their publication.

Agricultural Fair.

The Mechanics Hall, at the Fair Grounds, is now ready to receive machinery and shafting. Capt. James Rees has tendered the Society a boiler and engine, for which a vote of thanks has been tendered.

A contract for whitewashing the buildings in the Fair Grounds has been awarded E. Spurdert.

James Kelly, W. H. Guy and Moses Chess have been appointed delegates to the Agricultural College, near Bellefonte, Centre county, for the purpose of electing a Board of Trustees for said College, with instructions to vote for James Kelley as a member of the Board. They were also instructed to use their endeavors to have a Model Farm located in Allegheny county.

Arson.—A negro boy and woman were arrested a day or two since at Belmont, Ohio, on charge of being incendiaries. Last Wednesday night Mr. William Allendoffer had his barn, together with his entire crop of this season, burned; also his horses and farming utensils. He had hid $375 in the barn for better security, and as the boy had money in his possession after the fire, he was suspicioned, and all but ten dollars was found concealed in the lining of his hat. The woman was supposed to have been his partner.

Quite Lucky.—A merchant of this city, yesterday, dropped upon the street a wallet containing the snug sum of eleven thousand dollars. It was found by a gentleman doing business on Fifth street, who, from papers in the wallet, discovered the name of the owner, and promptly returned it to him. We need not say that the unfortunate fortunate loser was overjoyed to receive the lost wallet.

Campaign in the Sixth Ward—Formation of a Geary Club.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Union Republican citizens of the Sixth ward, convened last evening in the School House on Franklin street, for the purpose of organizing a Geary Club for the campaign. The meeting was called to order by Alderman Butler, on whose motion Jacob H. Walter was chosen President pro. tem., and Frank P. Case Secretary.

On taking the chair, Mr. Walter thanked those present for the honor conferred upon him, and promised to lend all his energies to the furtherance of the election of their noble standard bearer, John W. Geary. The following gentlemen were appointed as a committee on permanent organization: Dr. A. G. McCandless, Chas. Irving, and Alderman Joseph A. Butler.

The Committee retired, and in their absence William Little, Esq., was called upon and addressed the meeting at considerable length. He spoke of the importance of the campaign, and urged all who loved their country and liberty to gird on the armor for the civil conflict, which, he doubted not, would result in the election of Gen. Geary to the Gubernatorial chair by as large a majority as that given last fall, despite the efforts of the Bread-and-Butter brigade. The speaker was particularly severe on those who, for the sake of a puny office, had deserted their principles. He alluded to the recent speech of the President in New York, and said, it was a curious fact that while the chief executive was severe on what he termed northern traitors, he had no censure for the traitors in the south who had deluged the country in blood by their treason. After complimenting the Hon. J. K. Moorhead on the noble cause pursued by him in Congress, Mr. Little retired amid applause.

The Committee on Permanent Organization then reported the following list of officers:

President—Robert E. Sellers.

Vice Presidents—Dr. George M'Cook, Jacob H. Walters, John Rebman, William Stewart, Col. James Lindsey, George Cochran, W. F. Lange, J. P. Tanner, Robert Robb, John L. Ward, George Arthurs, Samuel Allender, A. M. Brown, J. D. Kelly, Captain S. B. Cooper.

Secretaries—Frank P. Case, Otis Sheppard, J. K. Newman.

Treasurer—Charles Jeremy.

The report was accepted, and a vote being taken those nominated by the Committee were declared elected unanimously.

Messrs. Lindsey, Wallace and Walter were appointed a Committee to wait upon Mr. J. Y. McLaughlin to ascertain if he was determined to support Geary at the coming election.

This was deemed unnecessary, as Mr. McLaughlin, who had been appointed on the Executive Committee, was reported to be in favor the Fusion ticket lately put in the field by the Johnson-Cowan clique.

Drs. McCook and McCandless each made brief and forcible addresses, which were well received.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Thursday evening next at half-past seven o'clock.

After the Club had adjourned, the Executive Committee met and organized by electing William Culp Chairman, and F. P. Case Secretary. Quite a number of gentlemen were added to the Committee, after which they adjourned, to meet at the same place on Saturday evening, at seven o'clock. The newly appointed members of the Committee are as follows: James S. Patterson, Jacob Zeigler, Gilbert M'Master, William Riddle, William Shane, Thomas J. Barbour, John McCallum, William Floyd, Elias Hunzeker, David Chambers, Reuben Miller, Jr., I. Bender, and James Vandegrift.

On motion adjourned, to meet on Saturday evening, at half past seven o'clock.

Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher.

The very acme of medical combinations, has been attained in that most wonderful of wonder-working medicines, now known under the significant title of "Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher." It is not in one disease alone that its transcendant curative powers are displayed. It has a far wider range, and there is no disease in which the blood is contaminated, that it will not produce wonderful results. The cure of ordinary diseases, such as Dyspepsia, Debility, and Colic, are mere nothings in the way of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher. Even Cancers, Scrofula, old Ulcers, White Swellings, Dropsies, Piles, and Fistulas, are entirely removed and driven out of the system by its sweetening and neutralizing power. If we could bring before the knowledge of our readers the wonderful cures that Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher has made within the past few years, there is not a family in Allegheny county that would not buy a bottle and keep it in the house. It not only cures, but it hinders the inception of disease. If any one will take a teaspoonful or two of Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher in the morning, it will render the system proof against the attacks of malarial and other diseases of an epidemic character.

It regulates the bowels, improves digestion, and gives energy and tone to the nerves and muscles.

No one that is languid and weekly can take Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher without being more than compensated for the trifling cost, in the renewed health and energy which it brings.

Ask for Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher, and take no other. If your druggist has not got it, write to Dr. Keyser's, 140 Wood street, and he will forward by express upon receipt of the price—$1 per bottle, or six for $5.

Serious Accident.

Lizzie Severance, a little daughter of Mr. Samuel Severance, residing at No. 25 Marbury street, met with a serious accident yesterday afternoon, between four and five o'clock, which will probably result in her death. The injured child was placed on a horse at her father's door for the purpose of accompanying her aunt, Miss Bella Miller, in a ride to the country. While Miss Miller was mounting, the horse on which the child was seated took fright and started at a gallop up Marbury street to Penn. The saddle girth became loose, and as a consequence the child fell to the ground, but one of her feet catching in the stirrup, she was dragged for almost three hundred yards, her head striking the pavement and crushing the side of the face in a horrible manner. She also received serious bodily injuries. When picked up she was insensible, and did not regain her consciousness until the arrival of the physician, who dressed her wounds. It is thought she cannot possibly recover.

Painful Accident.—Yesterday afternoon, a painful accident occurred in a stable owned by Mr. Thomas Rourke, on Centre avenue, in the Seventh ward. A son of Mr. Rourke—a sprightly little fellow—was playing with a machine used for chopping feed. While in the act of putting some straw in the machine his fingers were caught and drawn between the knives, mangling four of his fingers so badly that amputation had to be resorted to. Dr. J. Guy McCandless very skillfully dressed the boy's wounds.

An Ex[illegible]

As a young [illegible] Morton was returning from a [illegible]land's Grove, yesterday, in a buggy [illegible] a young lady, the horse [illegible] at the Oakland Station of the [illegible] and East Liberty Passenger Railway, and dashed off at a gallop. Finding he was unable to control the animal by the rein he escaped out of the buggy and attempted to grasp the horse by the head, but in doing so he fell and the vehicle passed over his right leg. He sustained no serious injury, however, and regaining his feet instantly he was again at the head of the flying horse, while the young lady with wonderful composure retained her seat. This was a matter of some difficulty, as the vehicle was at times running on two wheels and threatened each moment to overturn. With the aid of a gentleman who witnessed the occurrence and ran to the rescue the flight of the horse was at length stayed and the young lady assisted to alight. Save a slight injury to the horse no damage was done. The lady has good reason to rejoice at her good fortune for thus easily escaping from her perilous position.

A Mud Lark in a Row—He is Seriously Injured.

A young man, said to belong to the Mud Lark fraternity, was injured in a very serious manner yesterday afternoon. From all that we could gather from the police, and from persons at the house where he lives, it appears that he was drinking, and while in a state of partial intoxication he attempted to force his way into a disreputable house on Tunnel street, between Wylie and the Fourth street road. Being refused admittance, he thrust his arm through the window, in doing which he was badly cut, the broken glass severing the arteries and veins of his arm, and causing him to bleed in such a profuse manner that it was thought that death would ensue from hemorrhage before medical assistance could be procured. He was taken to his home, on High street, near Webster, but by the time he had reached the house, he was so reduced by loss of blood, that he could scarcely stand. Dr. McMeal, Jr., was called in to attend him, and at last accounts he was very low. If he should die, it will only be the result of his own folly and recklessness.

Bigamy and Adultery.—Lewis A. Bright was committed to jail yesterday morning charged with adultery, and bigamy by Jacob Ulslar. Bright formerly lived in Pottsville, Pa., where he now has and then had a wife. He came to this city, and meeting with Miss Ulslar, succeeded in seducing her. He afterwards prevailed upon her to go with him to Philadelphia, where he married her, and went with her to Pottsville. His first wife living in the vicinity of that place, it was not long before his second wife began to have suspicions that all, was not right, and she returned to her father's home in this city, where he followed her. Her father had him arrested, and he was committed to jail as above stated.

Mass Meeting.—By advertisement elsewhere, it will be perceived that a meeting of the friends and admirers of President Johnson, irrespective of party, are invited to attend, in mass meeting at Masonic Hall, this evening to make arrangements for a public reception to the distinguished gentleman upon his return to Washington from Chicago.

Discharged.—Mrs. Elliott, at whose house the cutting affray mentioned elsewhere took place, was arraigned before Alderman Morrow yesterday on the charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was acquitted, the evidence being of such a character as to force the magistrate to discharge her. Arthur Dempsey was the prosecutor.

MANUFACTURES.

Every intelligent man understands that the Southern States possess vast if not unmatched natural advantages for manufacturing. In climate, water power and water communications, coal, minerals, and agricultural productions, they are not only not a whit behind the Northern ones, but in important respects enjoy a superiority. That these gifts of Nature have been relatively disused is not due to constitutional inferiority on the part of the Southern public, but in the existence of slavery. This institution operated injuriously on the whites as well as the blacks. Ignorance comported with the condition in which the blacks were held, knowledge would have armed them with incalculable force of resistance or assault against their masters. Hence it was needful to employ them in those under industries in which brute powers, under a few directing minds, were chiefly requisite. Certain vices were consequently developed and fostered among them. They became improvident. Why should they make provisions that could not inure to their own benefit? They were dishonest. Robbed of everything, why should they be regardful of property rights in others? The light of intellect denied them, their souls sat in darkness. In physics it is found that action and reaction are equal. The analogy holds everywhere. Hence, the vices, inwraught upon the blacks, produced corresponding vices in the whites. They became proud, imperious, slothful, prodigal, revengeful. Labor has become in their minds the badge of servitude. They despise it—nor is this the worst. Not having practiced any honorable industries, they not only find it hard to begin, but will succeed indifferently when they do start. Qualities and aptitudes are self-perpetuating. They descend, in the general, from parent to child. This is illustrated strikingly in the fabrication of delicate gauzes in India. The manipulation is so fine that only generations of use fit a person for the employment. What neither the mother nor daughter succeeds in doing, the grand-daughter accomplishes with ease. In northern society this principle gets little chance for development. It exists none the less. In the Southern States it has received frightful opportunities. Herein rests the philosophy of the opinion, often expressed, but imperfectly understood, that the blacks, under the impulse of Liberty, are likely to beat the Southern whites in the race of competition and improvement. The blacks have had their industry trained, in some sort, through successive generations, while their white neighbors have had their indolence and contempt of labor educated for generations.

The abrogation of slavery has removed the barriers against the successful introduction of diversified manufactures into the South. This is evidenced, not only by abstract reasoning, but by the altered tone of the Southern people on this subject. The demand is almost universal for the setting up of factories, especially those designed to supply the coarser and commoner articles of consumption. With the new race opened up, Southern people feel not only their present inferiority in these matters but that long habit of sloth has rendered them less expert than the Northern people. Of course, manufactures, in great variety, will not spring up throughout the South, like JONAH's vine, in a night. The Southern people have the peculiarities of one system of labor to unlearn, and the peculiarities of another system to take on. A double process of this magnitude requires time; but it will be accomplished.

Besides, Northern capital and skill will contribute greatly to this end. Just now, it must be confessed, there is a hitch. Many Northern men who have gone South are repelled. Thousands have returned home in disgust; and thousands more will follow. But this discrepancy is temporary. The waves of a great storm do not sink to repose in an hour. Indeed, they roll with increased power and height after the winds have ceased coursing and retired to their chambers. But the waves will lower their crests, and a deep calm settle down over the land, and peace will brood all gently, as a hen gathers her chickens under her wings.

The South has been almost unanimously for Free Trade. It is destined not to be so. Louisiana sugar men are not to be the only co-operators from that section with Pennsylvania iron men on the floor of Congress. A demand, singularly unanimous, for the protection of labor, will soon come up from the South. Identity of domestic institutions will surely beget identity of interests and purposes. The North is not to do the manufacturing for the nation in the new era which begins to dawn.

GEN. SHERIDAN states explicitly that all the speeches delivered at the New Orleans meeting, except that of Dr. DOSTIE, "were characterized by moderation." The men who made these speeches, if they fared better than the Doctor, did not owe their immunity to their moderation, nor to the forbearance of the President's mob, but to their dexterity in escaping the hands of the assassins. It was not so much the manner in which certain things were said, as the fact that they were said at all, that enraged the champions of "My Policy." Extravagant utterances may have been used as pretexts, but the massacre was planned before the speeches were made; and if the orators had spoken in cadences mellow as softest music, the butchery would have been enacted all the same.

ABUNDANT HARVESTS.

It must be confessed the last spring was not propitious. The weather was cold and vegetation backward. Even grass, through wide districts refused to grow. Seldom have stronger reasons existed for anticipating small crops. Croakers and speculators, and not a few who neither joined in dolorous bewailment of impending scarcity of food for men and beasts. Though there was bread enough and to spare, prices went up, under the presumption that the surplus of the old crop would not eke out the deficit of the new one. As the season advanced, better weather came on. At length July poured floods of revivifying heat over the tardy and reluctant earth. The change was complete. Hay turned out a full average in quantity, and the quality was never surpassed. Standing with an experienced agriculturist on the porch of his dwelling, overlooking meadows, fragrant with odors from the tedded grass, he remarked, "I distrusted Providence last spring, and had greater reason to repine than ever before, yet there is no failure, and I shall never doubt again."

So, all the prophecies of failure in the cereals are proven utterly false. Wheat, oats, and corn are remarkably fine. Indeed, they were never better, if as good. The two former crops, of course, are already secured, and the latter is so far advanced that no apprehensions need be entertained because of the coldness of the current month.

Nor is this all. Tobacco is fully up to the average both in respect to quantity and quality. Cotton is more likely to exceed three millions of bales than to fall below.

The political condition of several of the European nations, during the summer, has been such as considerably to lessen production. Indeed, precautionary military arrangements in a number of nations not actually involved in hostilities, made it necessary to abstract a large amount of working force from the soil as well as from other departments of industry. Hence, it is reasonable to expect a foreign demand for much, if not all, the agricultural productions we may have to spare.

In this connection it is pertinent to remark that the United States is now about the most difficult country in the world in which to get up a famine, or even such a deficiency of provisions as shall create actual stringency. The length and breadth of the country are so enormous, the diversities of soil and climate so great, and the diffusion of population so general, that failures in crops must necessarily be local, and, therefore, productive of only partial and restricted consequences. Every year, as the waves of population sweep over and occupy new districts, the danger of short supplies diminish.

BLASPHEMY.

In the full report of the speech of ANDREW JOHNSON, at the Continental Hotel, in Philadelphia, (an abstract of which we gave by telegraph) we find the following passage, which no one who has any reverence for that Being whose name may not be lightly uttered, can read without a shudder. It is a comparatively light thing that this demagogue and ruffian should villify his fellow men; but when he undertakes to drag the Almighty down to a level with such men as himself, it is about time he himself was dragged down. He got the miserable conceit with which he closes the passage from a vile bacchanalian song. It is not original.

> I am told, on this occasion, that there is an association here to-night who have come forward under the appellation of their own profession for the purpose of manifesting their regard. I want you to understand that I do not feel indifferent to a thing of that kind, for in this Government of ours "it is worth that makes the man, and the want of it the fellow," and if there is an association here to-night, as I have been informed there is, that calls itself the Tailors' Protective Association, then to them I return my sincere thanks, with no feeble assurance of my regard for their profession. (Three cheers for Andrew Johnson, intermingled with groans.) There is no position in life in which I could be placed that would lead me to forget my early history and my early profession; there is none that could make me forget the past as far as the profession is concerned. We should remember, when we refer to the mechanical interests of this country in connection with the agricultural, that they constitute the basis on which this Government rests; and when we refer to the profession that you represent here to-night, in common with your fellow-citizens, let me say that our great Father in Heaven, the Lord of the world, was a tailor by trade. (Laughter and applause.) And when you refer to a historical account of this thing, you find that my remarks are literally true.

WHILE Andrew Johnson is decapitating every office-holder who will not betray his principles, his Southern organs are inciting rebel mobs to hang Union men. The Memphis Avalanche, not satisfied with the brutal massacre of the freedmen it provoked last spring, advises that radicals should be the victims of the next uprising. It says:

"If again we are called upon to defend ourselves and our rights from such invasion as the Radicals are striving to bring upon us through the social and political equality of the negro, let us not forget, in the moment of our passion, that the negro is not the chief worker in this scheme of villainy. He is but the tool, the dupe, the catspaw to the wily, vicious, cunning monkey. Next time let us catch the monkey, and when caught let us read him a lesson of "personal liberty," such as he little dreams of when selling his books and pictures to the deluded negro, and teaching him the road to "equality." We repeat it—John Brown's are among us still. They are teaching the negroes the hate which animates the devil. If they should succeed in inciting another riot between the whites and blacks of the South, it will be a sacred duty we owe to humanity to let the negroes pass unhurt, but hang their radical, fanatical leaders as high as Haman was hung before the Jewish king's gate. That is our retribution. Spare the poor negro, but dedicate to an infamy of immortality the damnable scruff which moves in our midst but to perpetuate discord, hate, bloodshed and death."

—By the latest census, the population of Prussia numbered 19,394,803 persons, but in consequence of the annexation of territory which will result from her success in the war, Prussia will have her boundaries considerably extended. Thus Schleswig-Holstein is added, with a population of 960,996; Hanover, with 1,923,492; Nassau, with 468,311; Electoral Hesse, with 745,063; Frankfort, with 94,180; Hesse-Homburg, with 26,817; and part of Bavaria, with 30,000. These annexations add to Prussia over 4,100,000 people, and swell her population to at least 25,000,000.

—It is announced from London, that in order to adapt the Atlantic Cable more to the wants of the public, it is proposed to divide the messages into three classes, the first to have the precedence of others and to be charged the highest, and the messages of the other classes to have delivery guaranteed to them within a certain time. There is very little probability, however, of any rate of charge less than five dollars in gold per word being established.

—In St. Louis, Missouri, last week, a boy named George Kingsland, about twelve years of age, was bathing and playing alone in a room in his father's house, and in some way a long towel, suspended from a roller, on which he was swinging himself, became twisted about his neck, and he hung strangling until some one entered the room and released him. When taken down he was insensible, and soon after he died.

—The Internal Revenue Commission, in reply to inquiries whether there is any internal duty on the products of sorghum, replies that molasses and sugar made from sorghum or imphee, are, and have been since the passage of the act of March 3d, 1865, exempt from duty.

THE NEW
Spring and Summer Medicine.
FLUID EXTRACT
SARSAPARILLA,
COMBINED WITH
Iodide of Lime,
PREPARED FOR
G. W. PETTES, BOSTON,
BY
James R. Nichols & Co.,
MANUFACTURING CHEMISTS,
MANUFACTURERS OF THE
ELIXIR PERUVIAN BARK
WITH
Protoxide of Iron,
Which has become so favorably known as a
Tonic and Restorative,
By Physicians and Invalids in all parts of the country.

The new preparation, "SARSAPARILLA IN A COMBINATION WITH IODIDE OF LIME, presents one of the most prompt alterative agents in a form capable of exerting full action upon the system, and this in minute and pleasant doses. It is conceded that the alterative, resolvent, or tonic effects of Iodine, are exerted most decidedly when associated with other alteratives, in combination; and the Sarsaparilla seems to fulfil perfectly all the favorable requisitions.

The first effect usually observed when 'SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME' is taken, is an increase of appetite, showing that it has tonic properties of a marked character. Its alterative effects are manifest in its ready combination with the blood and tissues. Pale, scrofulous women and children improve rapidly under its use, and the vital functions assume a healthy condition.

It is admirably adapted to a large number of chronic or acute affections peculiar to children. It is suited to them, both by the mildness and efficiency of Medicinal effect and the pleasant, attractive form of the remedy. It may be given for a long period where constitutional influences are desired, and no repugnance, or disinclination to take the syrup, encountered. In White-Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, and Distortions of the Spine, it should be given persistently, in moderate doses, until relief is obtained.

In the Spring of the Year, and during the Warm Weather,
The accumulation of morbid matters in the system seems to become manifest and very troublesome. Lassitude, Headache, Boils, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Pains in the Joints, Indigestion, etc., are very common. Nothing ever devised is better adapted to exterminate or drive off these affections than this new combination of SARSAPARILLA WITH IODIDE OF LIME.
No preparation like it, or which approximates to it as an Alterative, or Blood Purifier, has ever before been placed within the reach of invalids. Indeed, it is an entirely NEW and SCIENTIFIC combination. In no respect resembling anything hitherto employed.
The opinion of medical men concerning it, the description of its chemical character, therapeutic value, manner of use, etc., are given in a circular, which can be had at the store of any and all first-class Druggists.

Autumn Fashions.

The fashions are always an interesting subject to young ladies—yes, and even to those who have passed the "hey-day of youth," and are plodding down the vale of tears with tottering footsteps and shrunken form. In fact, women in the decline of her beauty evinces an increased desire to aid her personal appearance by the devices of fashion. There the full rounded form which nature had given her in youth is kept in seeming repair by a careful systematic padding. Her ivory molars are replaced by porcelain, the damask tinge of her cheek by rouge de rouge. The raven blackness of her hair by Chistadora's hair dye, and the symmetry of her pedals by—horse hair. We have no objection to urge against all this. It is all imminently proper. As women are originally the prettiest, it is nothing but natural for them to keep up the deception as long as possible, and force poor male bipeds to admire them even if they are, like the stiffed forms in a show window, the work of the dress-maker and milliner. In order to assist our lady readers, we append a list of the fashions for September. The bonnets will be more in vogue this fall, taking in a great measure the place of the hats now worn. The turban of the various shapes will however still be in favor with the votaries of fashion.

The Lamballe or Celestial is still regarded as fashionable by the demi monde, when constructed of pointed chips trimmed with white ribbons, long green leaves, and a large white or red rose-bud at the back.

A bonnet of white crape, trimmed with pipings of blue satin and dotted with large pearl beads, the crown being flat and round resembling a snail shell, promises to be the fall favorite. This bonnet is much larger than those worn last year, and we are of the opinion that the small shaped are already doomed. This is a matter of taste, however, and people will be disposed to wait and see what is going to be the real style before purchasing. For the street, of course, high necked dresses will be still the rage, with moderately tight sleeves and the usual long trail. Gray and a light color of drab will be the prevailing colors. We have seen a very pretty trimming for dresses, consisting of four rows of velvet near the bottom and running up the front in a bias for forming a point midway between the waist and bottom of the skirt. For outdoor wrappings shawls will be much worn, but a new mantle, which is known as the "Pall Mall," will doubtless be in favor. This pretty and elegant mantle is made of black gros grain silk. It is full behind, and crossing over in front on the right side where it is secured by a passementerie clasp, from which depends two long silk tassels. The fronts are slightly curved at the bottom, forming two separate points, each terminated by a large silk tassel. The whole garment is entirely trimmed with a rich passementerie, edged by a row of small grelots. The seams under the arms are covered with appliqued passementerie, finished off with gimp fringe. The sleeve is very small at the bottom, and has a seam at the elbow covered by the trimming, which forms a cuff at the wrist. The epaulette is composed of appliqued passamenterie, with gimp fringed to match the side-piece. Altogether the garment is very beautiful, and as we said before, will doubtless be very popular. The ladies will be rejoiced to learn that dress goods shows a tendency to decline in prices.

Disorderly House.—Mary Jasper occupies a room in the house of Michael Turner, on Townsend street, in the Sixth ward. Mary is in the habit of inviting her friends to visit her as often as three and four times a week. It is almost unnecessary to add that these friends invariably accept the kindly invitations so graciously extended, and the consequence is Michael is terribly annoyed at the noise that always attends those visits. He remonstrated with his tenant and advised her either to forsake her friends or else force them to be quiet on the occasion of their tri-weekly reunions. She refused to do either, and Michael therefore made oath against her before Alderman Lynch, for keeping a disorderly house.

The "Insane Dodge" Man.—George Blazear, who was committed to jail some time since by Mayor Morrison for larceny, and who has been assuming the character of an insane man ever since, made an attempt a few nights ago to escape from jail by sawing off the bolts that secured his dungeon window in the jail. He got hold of an old case knife, which he converted into a saw, and he had succeeded in sawing off one of the bolts before he was discovered. He now assumes to be more insane than ever; but unless there is more positive evidence of mental aberration than he has yet shown, his chances for the Penitentiary are good.

Body Recovered.—On Friday last the body of Wm. Bedler, son of Jacob Bedler, residing near Brownsville, who was drowned in the Monongahela river on the 15th inst., was found near the scene of the accident. He was one of the crew of the steamer Elector, which landed along side of a flat-boat, pool No. 5, for some passengers. Bedler was on the gunwale of the flat, assisting them aboard, when the steamer jarred against the boat, or the swell from the boat moving the flat threw him into the water. He sunk at once and being unable to swim, is it supposed was washed under the flat.

Killed in a Coal Pit.—Yesterday morning about nine o'clock, a young man by the name of Ephraim Reese was almost instantly killed by the falling of the slate horse back in McFarland's coal pit, near Wilkinsburg. The falling mass crushed a great hole in his breast, and he only lived about five minutes after being taken out. He was about twenty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and one child. He had only been at work in this coal pit for about two weeks. Coroner Clawson went out last evening, and held an inquest on the body.

Judgments Ordered.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday morning, Judge McCandless delivered an opinion in favor of the plaintiff, in the case of Nelson W. Graham vs. John S. Markle et. al. The plaintiff had a rule issued to show cause why judgment should not be entered for want of sufficient affidavit of defense, and a few days since this point was argued. The Court ordered judgment in favor of plaintiff on the grounds stated for $80. Judgments were also entered in nineteen oil cases, similar to those heretofore mentioned.

Railroad Accident.—A railroad accident occurred at Ravenna on the A. & G. W. Railway on last Monday—an extra freight train running into the accommodation train just as the latter was leaving that station. Conductor James Clancy and a newsboy named Hoyt Wilson, were killed, and the brakeman had his leg broken. None of the passengers were injured. The accident was caused by a thick fog which prevented the train men from seeing the danger until it was too late.

Washington and Jefferson College, Pa.—At the recent commencement it was stated by the President, Dr. Edwards, that, in addition to the present endowment of $12,000, measures were in progress to make an effort to secure $100,000 additional, and that this sum would be obtained. The trustees have just elected to the scientific department at Washington, Prof. H. Twining, of St. Louis, formerly assistant to Prof. Silliman.

The Difference.—Good beef, veal and pork is selling in Wheeling at 16 cents a pound and chickens at $2.50 per dozen. Here meats sell at from 20 to 25 cents a pound, and chickens at 75 cents a pair. Here lima beans bring 30 cents a quart; there they bring 20 cents. Here butter is 35 cents; there, 25 cents, and all other eatables in proportion. Why is it that there is so great a difference?

Recovered.—The case of McKnight vs. Bosworth, for the possession of a watch found by Mrs. Bosworth, and claimed by Mr. Knight as belonging to his daughter, has been mentioned several times in our local columns. Yesterday morning, the watch, with Miss McKnight's name engraved upon it, was sent to Mr. McKnight, and we suppose that this will end the matter.

Committed to Jail.—John Beeny, of Natrona, preferred a charge before Justice Bracken, of that place, against William Orris, of Tarentum, for assault and battery. Orris had already been arrested and committed to the county jail on a charge of riot committed at the Tarentum camp ground last Saturday.

Fire in Seventh Ward.—A shed attached to the residence of Mrs. Schemiffter, on Centre avenue, in the Seventh ward, took fire yesterday morning between eight and nine o'clock, and ere the flames could be stayed the entire structure was destroyed. The dwelling was but slightly damaged.

Threatened to Disembowel Her.—Elizabeth Keyser appeared before Alderman Lynch, yesterday, and made oath against Sarah Wheelock, for surety of the peace. The latter threatening to tear the internals from the stomach of Elizabeth. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

Killed at a Coal Mine.—On Tuesday last Joseph Griffith, a miner residing at Millville, was instantly killed by being struck by the descending train of cars on the inclined plane belonging to the Cambria Iron Company's mines. He leaves a wife and five children.

Fact.—It is a strange fact, and yet from our own knowledge it is true, that out of ten cases of assault and battery, and surety of the peace, there is not three that has not a woman implicated in it, either as defendant, prosecutrix or a witness.

Lazies.—They have got a base ball club at Titusville called the "Lazies." Five minutes' time is allowed between each base. If the player does not "make base" in that time, he is put out. Smart fellows.

Another Monument.—The citizens of Evansburg and vicinity, Crawford county, have subscribed the necessary funds to erect a monument to their brave soldiers who fell during the war.

Sport Ahead.—The law prohibiting the killing of squirrels, partridges and other game goes out of force from and after to-day for the present year. Game is very abundant this season.

Larceny.—Geo. K. Shaw preferred a complaint before Alderman Humbert, charging Ann Richardson with the larceny of a lot of bed clothes. She was arrested and committed for trial.

Killed.—Mr. Joseph Bowman, an old resident residing near Lebanon, was killed last Friday by being thrown from his carriage while the horse was running away.

Accident.—Mrs. Mary McBe[illegible] son, fell down a flight of eight[illegible] Wednesday last, receiving severe[illegible] the head and back. [illegible]

Personal.—Michael Fitzpatrick will hear something to his advantage by calling on W. Shafer, 90 Fifth street.

Mayor pro tem.—Alderman Morrow is acting as Mayor pro tem during the temporary absence of Mayor McCarthy.

Special Caution.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has become so popular that various parties have put out articles calling them Mrs. Winslow's. Please take notice that the Mrs. Winslow of the Soothing Syrup is not connected with any other article. 1y11d&w

EARLY TELEGRAMS.

THE PRESIDENTIAL EXCURSION.

The Party in New York—Banquet on Wednesday Evening—Speeches of the President, Secretary Seward, General Grant, Admiral Farragut, Baron Stoeckel, Senor Romero, and Mayor Hoffman.

NEW YORK, August 30.—The following is the President's speech at the serenade last night: He thanked God that the people had, through their representative at the Philadelphia Convention, imposed a sentence upon those who opposed the restoration of the Union; that the people, obeying the great law of gravitation, which would vanquish any movement pointed to the disruption of the Union, had sent forth their edict like a blaze of light, that would exercise an irresistible influence throughout the United States. That the Union must be preserved as originally established under the Constitution. He had not been mistaken in holding that there was an over-ruling Providence in the movements of the American people. He believed that the great truth, for proclaiming which he had been pronounced a demagogue, was being carried out, that "the Voice of the People, is the Voice of God." (Cheers.) There was now a great ground swell coming that would teach traitors North that the union of these States must be preserved. He had begun in 1860 to oppose any encroachment upon that Union, and had continued to fight against such attempts at the southern portion of the circle. Now there were those who made attacks upon the magic circle, and had passed round to the other extremity. Should he name them? ("Yes, and hang them too.") They had named him and denounced him in the legislative department of the government as a traitor, when he, as the Executive of the nation, was determined to do his duty under the Constitution. They were the traitors, having extended their arms to the archives of the state, and trampled the Constitution of their fathers under foot. When these things were told to them by himself, on the anniversary of the birth-day of the father of our country, why it was undignified and unbecoming, though it was right for them to charge him with being a traitor, and with having abandoned the party that elected him. He challenged, to-day, the whole Congress in the aggregate, with the exception of those who stood by the Constitution, to come forward and put their finger on the slightest variation or departure in his course from the resolutions passed at Baltimore, upon which he was elected. It is because he had refused to obey those who had abandoned these principles and refused to give his sanction to what is called the Freedmen's Bureau Bill, which proposed to tax the people nearly $30,000,000 to support what they assumed to be for the interest of the freedmen. What is that? Those of us who contended for emancipation, did so not only for the black, but for the white man, and a good deal of that was needed. When they looked at this bill, what was it? Nothing more nor less than the transferring of 4,000,000 slaves from their original owners to a new set of task-masters, with the United States to pay all expenses, and the task-masters under the Government reap all the profits.

Mr. Johnson concluded by thanking the citizens of New York for the kindness manifested on the occasion. He was repeatedly interrupted with cheers, during which he retired.

Mr. Seward was next called for, and spoke briefly.

General Grant was next loudly called for, and said: "Gentlemen, I am so exhausted by the eloquence drawn from me this evening by your Mayor, that it is impossible for me to address you any further."

This speech was received with loud laughter and applause, the Mayor joining in heartily.

The banquet, given by some of our most wealthy and distinguished citizens to the President and party, came off in the evening at Delmonico's, and was a very splendid affair. Mayor Hoffman presided. Long and able speeches were made by President Johnson and Secretary Seward, and short ones by the Mayor, Gen. Grant, Admiral Farragut, Baron Stoeckel, the Russian Minister, and Senor Romero, the Minister for the Mexican Republic. Afterwards the President was serenaded and made another speech from the balcony at Delmonico's, as did also Mr. Seward. The following are the short speeches made at the banquet, the others being too long to telegraph:

SPEECH OF GENERAL GRANT.

Gentlemen:—All I can say is, if the President and his Cabinet had kept their resolution, made in secret session, to leave the Admiral and myself to do all the talking, we would have let you off to go to an early bed. [Applause and laughter.]

SPEECH OF ADMIRAL FARRAGUT.

Gentlemen:—I was invited to accompany the President to the west, where I have not been for many years, and where I naturally felt an inclination to go. I was taught in that good old school where an invitation from my Commander-in-Chief was always a pleasant duty to perform. If the President and Mr. Seward had known that I was a member of a clam-bake society, in which our first pledge was that any man who spoke five minutes, or five sentences of common sense, should be excommunicated, he would not have made that speech, stating that we were to be the orators of the day.

Secretary Welles being called for, Mayor Hoffman announced as the Secretary's excuse that he is "all at sea," and begs you will "waive" any further invitation on this occasion. He says he has got "oceans" of talk but that a "monitor" reminds him that he had better keep still. [Loud applause and laughter.]

Baron Stoeckel, the Russian Minister, responded in a very happy manner, expressing his thanks for the courtesy with which he had been treated in the city of New York, and his regrets at a prospect of soon returning to Europe, and his gratification that the American and Russian Governments had signalized a progressive epoch of their histories, by the almost simultaneously abolishing slavery and serfdom. He proposed, as a toast, as the hospitality he had heretofore received had been extended not by the gentlemen alone, to the bright ladies of the city of New York, which was drank amid cheers.

Senor Romero, Minister from Mexico, then responded, when Mayor Hoffman announced that the assembly inside would forego the further pleasure it might enjoy in continuing the festivities, to allow the people outside to listen to the President of the United States.

The President and his party will leave this morning on the River Queen for West Point. Arrangements on a grand scale are being perfected for his reception.

Secretary Stanton—General Howard

PHILADELPHIA, August 30.—A dispatch from Washington says: It is stated in knowing circles that Secretary Stanton is to be retained in office until after the trial of the suit of Wm. T. Smithson, who has claimed thirty thousand dollars damages for false imprisonment in 1863, when he was arrested by order of the War Department, tried, convicted and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. He was pardoned by Lincoln after serving a year. The Government proposes to defeat the action of Smithson, and hence his retention for the present.

General Tilson has been ordered to duty in Georgia, by General Howard. This is believed to put at rest the rumors of Howard's removal.

The Cholera in New York

All descriptions of Government Bonds bought and sold on liberal terms.

London and Continental Exchange sold at New York rates.

Gold, Silver and Coupons bought at highest rates, and Gold Drafts issued on New York.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

THURSDAY, August 30, 1866.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by P. H. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 147@147¼; 1881 bonds 113½, 5-20s, old, 112¾@113; do 1864, 112@112¼; do 1865, 109½@109¾; 10-40's, large, 103¾; do small, 102½; 7-30's, 106¾@107⅛; Michigan Southern R. R., 85⅝; Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, 87; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, 105¾; Erie Railroad, 73⅞; Western Union Telegraph Company, 58¾; Chicago & Rock Island, 116.

Gold since yesterday has declined 1½ per cent; old Five Twenties have advanced ⅛; do of 1865, 3⅛; do of 1864 declined ¼ to 1. Large Ten Forty bonds are firm, while small bonds are dull but unchanged. Seven Thirties neglected. Railroad stocks are without decided change one way or the other.

—The increased foreign demand for American securities only prove that European investors are increasing in knowledge, and that they discover a good thing in employing their capital in United States Five Twenty bonds at 70 to 72, when they are, or ought to be, worth 100 in gold. Whether we will continue to part with them at present prices ought speedily to be determined. The stimulus given to American Stocks in Paris and London on Saturday and Monday is now believed to proceed from genuine desire for permanent investment abroad and not from the sensational movements of speculators. The stimulating effect of the news here on all classes of Governments we have already shown; but it is probable that the payment of $70,000,000 on the government temporary loan, which began on Monday, could scarcely fail to have marked influence on stock prices and the money market, even without the Paris and London [illegible]. With the money market already over supplied, and the rate of interest on large loans as low as 4 per cent, the price of all stock securities is likely to continue to advance. With gold at 150 the government gold-bearing bonds net 9 per cent per annum in currency, more than 4 per cent interest on $339. In reference to this the Philadelphia Ledger says:

"With so large a difference in favor of the bonds as profitable investments, compared with the low rate of money on the street, the government funded debt, and all good stock securities must go up. The stock market was more or less unsettled all last week, and still is so. Parties who want to buy government bonds and other securities at, or under present quotations, and who find difficulty in doing so to the extent they require, are using the fact of the government disbursements as the argument to prove that the money market will be tightened thereby, because the payments, they say, will be made in National Bank notes. This statement is incorrect, as a very large proportion of the payments are in greenbacks; but even if the whole amount were paid in National Bank notes, it nevertheless forms an addition of some seventy millions to the money already in circulation among the banks and community, and in what way an addition to the circulation of seventy millions of anything that passes for money can tend to tighten the money market is not very apparent to plain people."

—The Western money markets are becoming more active. In Cincinnati on Saturday there was no pressing demand for loans, but it exceeded the supply of capital, and the best commercial paper submitted to 10@12 per cent discount in the open market, although between bankers and their depositors acceptable names were rated at 8@10 per cent. At Chicago the bankers are unwilling to discount any but first class paper, the rate of which is still 10 per cent, and they report that their country depositors, especially bankers, are drawing upon them rather heavily, in consequence of grain purchases. Exchange on New York in both cities varies from par to 1-10 discount, buying, and par to 1-10 premium, selling. At Louisville last week the amount of capital offering was in excess of the demand, and exchange on the East was inactive.

—Says Wednesday's New York Tribune: The ease in money produced by the payment of the temporary loan, is having a very beneficial effect upon the funded debt of the government, and large sums which have been left with the Treasurer at 4 per cent currency interest are being reinvested in federal gold bearing bonds. These securities have a decided preference, not being liable to the shrinkage that attends railway property. Federal bonds are a mortgage upon all the capital and labor of the country, and have solid claims to confidence not found in most of the railway shares sold at the Board, which with the largest earnings in their history have stopped dividends in some cases and lowered them in others. This list includes the Erie, New York Central, Michigan Southern, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, North Western, and Toledo and Wabash.

CENTRAL LIVE STOCK MARKET

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, Aug. 30, 1866.

CATTLE.

The arrivals of cattle were again large this week, but like last week and the week before, the offerings were mainly of common and medium grades, and consequently, prime to extra cattle sold without much difficulty, at extreme prices, while commoner descriptions moved slowly, and for these prices were barely maintained. One drove of extra Southern Ohio steers, averaging about 1550 lbs, sold at $150 per head; or about 9½ cts per pound; and another drove of prime Illinois steers brought $112 per head. It should be borne in mind, however, that these were fancy cattle, which is evident from the fact that they brought fancy prices, and cannot therefore be taken as a fair index of the market. Prime fat cattle, suitable for retailing in the Eastern markets may be quoted at 8 to 8½, and there is a good demand for this grade of cattle at those prices. There is also considerable inquiry for stock cattle, though as a general thing stock growers do not seem disposed to buy very freely at the prices. We quote at 3 to 8½, and as will be seen by reference to the sales annexed, the transactions were fair at the quotations named.

SHEEP.

The arrivals of Sheep were not as large as last week, and with a fair demand, the market may be quoted a trifle firmer, and prices a shade higher. There was a fair number of buyers in attendance, and the transactions in the aggregate were probably up to the usual standard, but buyers, for some reason or other, are operating with caution, which may be owing to the uncertainty of the eastern markets. We quote at 5 to 5½, gross—one drove of extra bringing 5.80—and these may be regarded as the extremes of the market.

SWINE.

The transactions in Hogs were rather larger than last week, and, if anything, prices are a shade higher. The receipts continue fair, though the demand is fully up to the supply, and quotations may be fairly given at $10,25 to $11 per cwt, gross.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, August 30, 1866.

The produce markets present no new features worthy of special notice. There is no improvement to note in the demand for any of the leading commodities, and prices have undergone no essential change one way or the other.

GROCERIES—There is a fair jobbing demand for Groceries, and while the market is reported steady prices have undergone no change. Sugars are quoted at 12 to 13½ for Cuba; 14 to 14½ for Porto Rico; 16 for "B" Coffee; 16½ for "A" Coffee; 16¾ for "C" Extra and 17½ for Crushed. Coffee is quoted at 25 to 30 for common to strictly prime Rio. Muscovado Molasses, 60 to 63; Porto Rico 70, 85 to 87. Teas—85 to $1,20 for Oolong, $1 to $1,50 for Japans, and 90 to $1,40 for Young Hysons.

GRAIN—Wheat is firm with a fair demand but unchanged; we can report sales in lots of 2 cars prime Spring at $2,50 to $2,55. Seed Wheat is selling at $2,75 to $3. Sale of 100 sacks new Ohio Oats at 38@40—a decline. Corn is reported firm at 75 to 78 for mixed, and 80 to 82 for prime Yellow. Rye is selling at 92 to 95 for Western. No movement in Barley.

FLOUR—The market is a shade easier, and a round lot could be purchased at a slight reduction. In small lots from store prices remain unchanged at $11 to $11,50 for Spring; 12,50 to $15 for Winter—sales of "White Star" at $12. Rye Flour $6,25 to $6,50, and Cornmeal 85 to $1 per bushel.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet and unchanged at 17 and 17½ for Shoulders; 19 to 20 for Ribbed Sides; 21 to 23 for Plain Hams, and 25 to 26 for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is quiet and unchanged at 22 to 22½ for Kettle. Small sales of Mess Pork at $33.50.

SEEDS—Sales of Timothy Seed at $4 wholesale, and $4,25 to $4.50 in small lots. Flaxseed is wanted at $3—a round lot would probably bring $3,25. Clover Seed is quoted at $7,50.

APPLES—Continue very dull, but unchanged. Small sales from store at $1,50 to $2 per bbl, as to quality.

BUTTER—The market is steady with a demand about equal to the supply, but unchanged. Sales of packed at 25 to 28, as to quality. [illegible]

CHEESE—Is firm but unchanged at 15 to 16 for Western Reserve; 16 to 17 for Hamburg, and 21 for York State Goshen.

SALT—Is reported steady with a fair demand at $2,30 to 2,35, per bbl., and $2,50 for small lots from store.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, August 30, 1866.

CRUDE—The market for Crude has undergone no change, one way or the other, since our last report. The demand continues light and confined almost entirely to spot oil, although now and again we hear of some one having mustered courage to contract for future delivery. We can report sales of 500 and 125 bbls, both at 17, bbls returned; 150 bbls at 17, packages included; and 35 bbls Franklin oil at 29½. The stock in this market, aside from that in the hands of speculators and refiners, is very much reduced, as we doubt very much whether one thousand barrels can be found on the beach unsold. The advices from Oil City are less favorable to producers—a telegram to-day quoting at $5,30 and very dull.

REFINED—The eastern advices continue unfavorable, and this, as a matter of course, has a tendency to retard operations here. There is apparently no demand for bonded oil, and that concessions would have to be made in order to effect sales, is generally conceded. We have reports of sales having been made in Philadelphia to-day at 46, to be delivered in New York; also, that there was a sale of one thousand barrels standard white at 45. In this market there has not been a single operation for three days that we could hear of, and prices are entirely nominal. The re-selling of contracts in the east is regarded as a bad omen, as it shows that operators are apprehensive in regard to the future. In free oil, there is no movement whatever.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil reported to-day were as follows:

Hogs.

There have been a good many inquiries made during the past three weeks in regard to hogs—as to what would probably be the opening price—but have not heard of any contracts being made. To-day we understand, 750 head were offered, to be delivered from November 26 to December 15, at $11 for the first 300 head; $10,50 for the second 300 head, $10 for the third 300 head, and $9,50 for the remainder. The hogs were to average 225 lbs nett.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Philadelphia Iron Market.

PHILADELPHIA, August 30.—Pig metal is more inquired after at full rates. Sales of 200 tons No. 1 Anthracite at $48, and No. 2 at $46 per ton. Scotch pig moves slowly at $56. Blooms are unchanged. We quote charcoal at $90 to $100. Manufactured iron is not much inquired after, but holders are firm in their views.

RIVER NEWS.

[illegible]

The Dubuque papers report quite a cholera scare when the Sucker State arrived on Sunday. One paper says that she had three hundred and fifty passengers on board, fleeing from the cholera, and there was not a business man in the crowd. Thirteen deaths are reported to have occurred on the passage up. Another paper says that there was some sickness on board, but it was a different type from cholera, and effected the deck passengers only.

The J. M. Turner, a small screw propeller has been sold to Messrs. Stapp & Bailey, of Henderson, Kentucky, for the sum of $5,300. She will go below under the management of Capt. J. C. Weatherbolt, to be used in towing barges that are carrying rock and bowlders. The above firm also bought two barges to go with her.

As a matter of historical record, we copy the following from the Detroit Post of the 24th instant:

Just forty-eight years ago yesterday, the steamer Walk-in-the-Water, the first steamer which ever plied on the western waters, arrived at this port, reaching here between the hours of ten and eleven a. m., August 23, 1818. She was commanded by Capt. J. Fish, and was forty-four hours and ten minutes in performing the distance between Buffalo and this city calling at several landings on the south shore of Lake Erie, including Sandusky. On Friday the day following her arrival, she gave an excursion into Lake St. Clair, and on Saturday took her departure for Buffalo. In November, 1821, she went ashore during a terrible gale in Buffalo Bay and became a total loss, saving her machinery only.

A case of [illegible] years standing cured by DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP.

PITTSBURGH, January 11, 1866.

DR. KEYSER—My wife has been afflicted with a dry cough and difficulty of breathing for five or six years, which, for several years back, had gradually increased in violence. The complaint has been hereditary, and she had been treated by several physicians without any relief. In this state of her case I procured some of your PECTORAL COUGH SYRUP I bought, the first time, a fifty cent bottle, which relieved her very much. I then called and got a dollar bottle, which cured her entirely, and she has now no trace of the former disease, except weakness. I would also state that I used the medicine myself for a cold and cough. The medicine cured me by taking two doses. I express my entire satisfaction with the medicine, and you are at liberty to publish to you desire to do so.

KEYSER: I have a daughter who has taken several medicines for a bad cough [illegible] among them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral [illegible] purchased from you a bottle of your Pectoral [illegible] had not half a bottle she was cured. The second bottle cured her entirely. [illegible]

JOHN PARIS,

PITTSBURGH, December 31.

A GREAT CURE BY DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP.—I live in Peebles township, Allegheny county. I had a cough a long time, which continued about the end of February last, and continued [illegible] months. I employed the best physicians in the country, and my cough continued unabated [illegible]. At that time I was advised to get your Pectoral Cough Syrup which I did, and after I had taken one bottle I was entirely free from the cough [illegible]. I had despaired of ever getting well. I think it should be known that it will do for others what it has done for me.

JOHN C. LITTLE,
Peebles township.

[illegible] TOWNSHIP, April 13, 1866.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Some time ago a neighbor of mine was very ill with a bad cough, which everyone supposed to be consumption. [illegible] but it was no go. In fact, it seemed rather to have improved by practice, and to have acquired strength, potency and irresistibility by the operation. In this stage of the siege we sought our way to Keyser's, No. 140 Wood street, procured a fifty cent bottle of the "Pectoral," took it according to directions, and in forty-eight hours we were master of the field, the enemy having unconditionally surrendered, after a brief, but unequal conflict with so formidable an adversary as Keyser's famous Cough Pectoral.—Brownsville Clipper, Dec. 14, 1865.
